Southern University College of Business
Strategic Plan

2012 - 2017

Baton Rouge, Louisiana
February 24, 2012

This document is the draft Strategic Plan of the College of Business for the period 2012 – 2017. At a retreat held on February 24, 2012, the draft outline was made available to the faculty, students, alumni, friends and other stakeholders of the College for further comments and suggestions.
Introduction

The content of the strategic plan is designed to serve as a general framework or guide for decisions about where to use resources (i.e., time, effort, and money), but is not yet so detailed for the dean and department chairs to make specific decisions within the broader planning framework.

The COB’s 2012-2017 strategic planning effort was organized around four questions:

1. Who are we as a college?
2. Where do we want to go?
3. How can we get there?
4. How will we tell if we have?

The first question suggests the need to identify the essential qualities of COB, in particular its fundamental commitments. This is the purpose of Section I. The second question refers to our distinctive initiatives (Section II), which will serve as overall areas of the College Strategic Plan - 2012-2017. The third question refers to goals, objectives and action steps (Section III) toward which the College of Business should work over the next five years. The plan uses the term objectives (ends) that contribute to the goals and the action steps (means), which are derived from the specific objectives. The objectives should be actionable, and this is why the plan uses the term action steps in lieu of strategies. Finally in response to the fourth question, the plan proposes a college and/or department level measures of success for assessing progress toward objectives of the plan, recognizing that the metrics and indicators need to be developed further at the implementation stage.

This plan assumes four major challenges for the COB over the next five years, some external and some internal.

1. Intense competition for faculty. This will increase as faculty retirements increase over the next five years.
2. Intense competition for students—at all levels—makes recruitment of new students more critical. Limited availability of scholarship funds for undergraduate students and graduate assistantship for MBA students is a significant problem for attracting top-notch students.
3. Declines in state funding for higher education. Another factor that adversely impacts the College in fulfilling its mission.
4. Existing funding model for academic units. The existing model of budget allocation does not motivate high achieving units and thus creates obstacles for accessing desperately needed funds for effectively and efficiently achieving our goals.

The content of the plan is organized around five major categories:

1. People (Faculty, Students and staff)
2. Curriculum, Learning and Assessment
3. Research
4. Internal Operations
5. External Relations

This strategic plan is a draft document that will change over time. It offers a common framework and flexible guide for managing the College over the next five years and, as such, it should foster greater coherence, coordination, and unity across the College. At the same time, however, it is designed to be adaptable enough to leave significant room for individual departments in the College to pursue academic excellence in ways important to those particular units.

Strategic Planning Budget 2012-2017

Implementing our strategies will require substantially more financial resources for the College of Business through the 2012-2017 planning period. Both the college’s budget for instruction and operations as well as the budget which supports research and academic programs will need to grow to accommodate the additional number of tenure-track faculty, the desired enhancements of our research environment, and the new academic initiatives that are part of our strategy. The principal source of funds for our instruction and operations will continue to be from state appropriation while funds required for improvements to classrooms and instructional technologies, purchasing of software as well as faculty professional development related expenditure would be supported by grants from Title III and private funding sources.
The Table below shows the projected new funding requirements for the College of Business instruction and operations budget for the academic years of 2012-2013 through 2016-17 that are necessary to support the strategic initiatives in this plan.

The COB budget projection for the 2012-2017 period assumes that we add six faculty members in 2012-13 to restore losses as a result of state imposed budget reductions. We will add faculty during the remaining years to support our new programs in 2013-14, one in 2014-15, 2015-16, and 2016-17.

Assumptions:

1. Six new faculty will be hired in 2012-13
2. Three new faculty will be hired in 2013-14 (Fill endowed chairs)
3. One new faculty will be hired in 2014-15
4. One additional new faculty will be hired in 2015-16
5. One new faculty will be hired in 2016-17
6. Fringe Benefits are computed at 29.23 per cent
7. All expenses except salaries are adjusted for inflation at 4 per cent
8. No allowance is made for AACSB or SREB salary adjustment.
9. Projected to recruit 20 new undergraduate and 40 MBA students annually.
